SCHWAB REPORTS SECOND QUARTER RESULTS Core Net New Assets Total $22.6 Billion, up 41% Year-over-Year Revenues Rise 10% Excluding One-Time Gain in 2012(1); Growth is 4% Including Gain

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16, 2013 – The Charles Schwab Corporation announced today that its net income for the second quarter of 2013 was $256 million, up 24% from $206 million for the first quarter of 2013, and down 7% from $275 million for the second quarter of 2012. Net income for the six months ended June 30, 2013 was $462 million, down 2% from the year-earlier period. The company's financial results for both the second quarter and first half of 2012 include a pre-tax gain of $70 million, or $44 million after-tax, relating to the resolution of a vendor dispute. Excluding the gain, net income rose by 11% year-over-year for the second quarter of 2013, and 8% for the first half of the year<sup>(1)</sup>.

CEO Walt Bettinger said, "Schwab's evolution from transaction specialist to full-service investment firm reflects our deep understanding of the changing needs of investors, as well as the advisors and employers who serve them. More than ever, clients look to us for help as they take ownership of their financial future. Over 430,000 accounts and $138 billion in assets are now enrolled in our retail advisory offers, increases of 12 and 17%, respectively, from a year ago. Including relationships under the guidance of independent advisors, more than 2.6 million accounts and over $980 billion in client assets at Schwab are currently receiving some form of ongoing advice."

"We expanded our lineup of advised solutions during the second quarter by adding Thomas Partners' dividend growth strategy to our offerings for retail and advisor-guided clients," Mr. Bettinger said. "Our progress on other key client initiatives remains in line with expectations as we move into the middle of 2013. The Schwab ETF OneSource<sup>TM</sup> platform, which offers commission-free access to 105 ETFs from Schwab and 5 other providers, has already grown by approximately $3 billion since its launch in February. Also during the second quarter, we continued to build client awareness of optionsXpress' innovative options and futures capabilities by announcing the Trading Patterns tool, which adds the ability to view the most popular underlying and option symbols being traded to a lineup that already includes the Idea Hub™ and Walk Limit™ tools. Additionally, we enhanced our platform for independent advisors through Schwab OpenView MarketSquare™, a venue for the advisor community to rate and discuss industry vendors, and we announced a new advisor lookup tool, which will enable individuals to search for local advisors through Schwab."

Mr. Bettinger added, "Overall, our continued success in serving investor needs enabled the company to produce another quarter of combined strength in business growth and financial performance. We ended June with $2.05 trillion in total client assets, up 14% year-over-year, and our client base grew to 9.0 million active brokerage accounts, 910,000 banking accounts, and 1.6 million corporate retirement plan participants, up 3%, 11%, and 5%, respectively. At the same time, we produced sequential improvement in all three of our main revenue sources, expanded total revenue by 4% over the first quarter of 2013, and delivered a 30.8% pre-tax profit margin. We continue to believe our strong business momentum, combined with our operating and expense discipline, will yield increasing operating leverage during the rest of 2013 and into 2014."

CFO Joe Martinetto commented, "With no major surprises or disruptions from the environment, we came through the second quarter about where we expected to be financially – balance and spread-related revenues ran at or slightly above plan, trading revenue remained relatively muted, and expenses reflected our moves to ensure spending growth remains below revenue expansion."

"While year-over-year growth in total revenues and net income for the second quarter was limited by last year's $70 million pretax gain, the signs of our building earnings power are clear," Mr. Martinetto said. "Strength in asset gathering and advice enrollments helped asset management and administration fees grow by 15% over the second quarter of 2012, net interest revenue rose by 3% even though short-term interest rates were below year-earlier levels, and a modest rebound in client activity lifted trading revenues by 7%. The temporary and seasonal factors that elevated compensation and benefits expense in the first quarter faded largely as anticipated and we continue to expect that careful headcount management will result in limited growth during the rest of 2013. We're still aiming for full-year 2013 expense growth that allows for both increased investment in our clients and improvement in profit margin and earnings for the year."

Mr. Martinetto concluded, "Recent increases in longer-term rates driven by the ongoing economic recovery are certainly helpful in mitigating downward pressure on our net interest margin, as we reinvest our fixed-rate assets at maturity. Since our balance sheet is structured so that Schwab's net interest revenue is more sensitive to changes in short-term interest rates - which have held relatively steady lately after dipping earlier in the year – more rapid and significant revenue impacts will be visible as that end of the yield curve begins to rise. With the economic recovery and overall rate environment currently pointing towards continued easing of headwinds for the company, the healthy balance sheet and solid capital base we've built keep us well positioned to drive growth going forward."
