

41% OF SEATTLEITES FEEL WEALTHY TODAY ACCORDING TO CHARLES SCHWAB’S MODERN WEALTH SURVEY

Seattleites feel optimistic about their personal finances while acknowledging that their location might not help their ability to reach their goals.

These findings are according to Charles Schwab’s seventh annual Modern Wealth Survey, an examination of how Americans think about saving, spending, investing, and wealth:

- 24% of residents say living in Seattle “helps” them achieve their financial goals and build their wealth. 40% say living in Seattle “hurts” their ability to reach their financial goals as the overall “cost of living is too high.”
- Nearly half (41%) of Seattleites feel wealthy today, and 10% of those who do not currently feel wealthy today believe they are on track to be wealthy in their lifetime.
- 71% of Seattleites are confident about reaching their financial goals.

HOW SEATTLEITES FEEL ABOUT THE CURRENT LOCAL ECONOMIC ENVIRONMENT

According to Schwab’s survey, 39% of Seattleites say the local economy is better compared to the overall U.S. economy, while 43% say it’s about the same and 18% think it’s worse.

When asked about a range of local economic and cultural factors and how they compare in Seattle to other cities in the U.S., Seattleites said the Seattle area is:

	One of the best	One of the worst	Neither
Overall economy	36%	26%	38%
Quality of life	56%	9%	35%
Cost of living	18%	58%	24%
Housing market	22%	52%	26%
Employment rate	44%	19%	37%
Career opportunities	52%	15%	33%
Tax rates	20%	45%	35%
Tech industry	65%	11%	24%
Food and dining	51%	16%	33%
Arts and culture	50%	13%	37%

LOCAL IMPACT OF INFLATION

Charles Schwab 2023 Modern Wealth Survey
SEATTLE AREA FINDINGS SUMMARY

From food to flights, Seattleites are feeling the effects of inflation. Nine in 10 (88%) say inflation has affected their finances, which is slightly greater than Americans overall (86%). In addition:

- Inflation is hitting Seattleites most on things like food and groceries (58% are spending more than the beginning of 2022), utilities (50% spending more), and transportation (35% spending more).
- Many Seattleites say they've significantly reduced spending on non-essential items (39%) and eating out (38%).
- More than half (58%) have had to reduce the amount of money they're able to save on a regular basis.

HOW SEATTLEITES DEFINE WEALTH

Compared to 2022, Seattleites redefined how much money it takes to be considered “wealthy,” while the amount it takes to be “financially comfortable” stayed the same:

	2021	2022	2023
Average net worth it takes to be “wealthy”	$3.1M	$3.2M	$3.1M
Average net worth it takes to be “financially comfortable”	$857K	$1.2M	$1.0M

But there is a paradox, driven by the contrast between how people define wealth for themselves versus how they define it for others. The 41% of Seattleites considered “wealthy” in Seattle is an average net worth of $734,000. However, the amount to be considered “wealthy” in Seattle is an average net worth of $3.1 million. It’s clear that non-financial assets like health and family resonate far more when defining wealth than having large sums of money, as a significant portion (46%) also reported living paycheck to paycheck.

When asked to choose which statement best describes how Seattleites think of wealth in their own daily lives, the definition of wealth is less about achieving a certain dollar amount. More Seattleites say wealth means:

Enjoying experiences	73%	27%	Owning many nice things
Not having to stress over money	74%	26%	Having more money than most people they know
Having a healthy work life balance	74%	26%	Maximizing my earnings even if it impacts my work life balance
Being generous with loved ones now	69%	31%	Leaving an inheritance
Enjoying healthy relationships with loved ones	59%	41%	Having a lot of money
Being in good health	65%	35%	Being successful
Having the flexibility of working where & how I want	63%	37%	Having a higher salary

Additionally, when Seattleites are asked to explain what defines being wealthy, ‘affording the lifestyle they want’ tops the list (33%), followed by ‘no debt’ (29%) ‘having a high income’ (25%), and ‘having good relationships with family and friends’ (19%).

THE IMPACT OF FINANCIAL PLANNING FOR SEATTLEITES:

According to Schwab’s survey, over one-third (37%) of Seattleites have a documented financial plan, and those with a plan feel more prepared and confident in navigating today’s complex economic and market environments. Among Seattleites with a documented financial plan:

Charles Schwab 2023 Modern Wealth Survey
SEATTLE AREA FINDINGS SUMMARY

- Seven in 10 said having a plan makes them feel more in control of their finances (74%).
- Four in five use some source for financial advice (83%).
- Of those with a financial plan, most developed it with a financial advisor (59%). Other sources are from a spouse (36%) or an online financial resource (34%).

According to Annie Liu, Regional Market Executive at Charles Schwab, “Taking the time to create a documented financial plan doesn’t take large sums of money. Starting with small steps and a positive mindset can make the planning process less daunting and allow investors to look at their financial situation more holistically while setting them on the path for long-term success.”

Liu adds, “A financial plan is like a roadmap and instills confidence for investors in getting to their final destination. Seattleites with a documented financial plan are more confident in reaching their financial goals than those without (95% vs. 58%).”

ABOUT SCHWAB’S MODERN WEALTH SURVEY

Schwab’s seventh annual Modern Wealth Survey examines how Americans think about saving, spending, investing, and wealth. The online survey was conducted by Logica Research from March 1, 2023, to March 23, 2023, among a sample of 500 Seattle residents aged 21 to 75. Quota were set to balance the local sample on key demographics.
